

ILLUSTRATED Evening Ledger

WEDNESDAY
February 2, 1916

THE WORLD'S KALEIDOSCOPE OF VARIED NEWS AS COLLECTED BY THE KEEN-EYED CAMERA MAN

WHAT A BOXING MATCH CROWD LOOKS LIKE ON A "BIG NIGHT" WHEN ALL THE SPORTS TURN OUT.
This picture was taken by flashlight Monday night at the Olympia Club, when there was a packed house to witness the return match between Lew Tendler and Eddie O'Keefe, a bout which brought out most of the local sporting fraternity. The ropes of the squared arena are visible in the foreground. The dotted figures, 1 to 6, attached to the gallery, belong to the lamp which indicates the number of rounds fought in each bout.

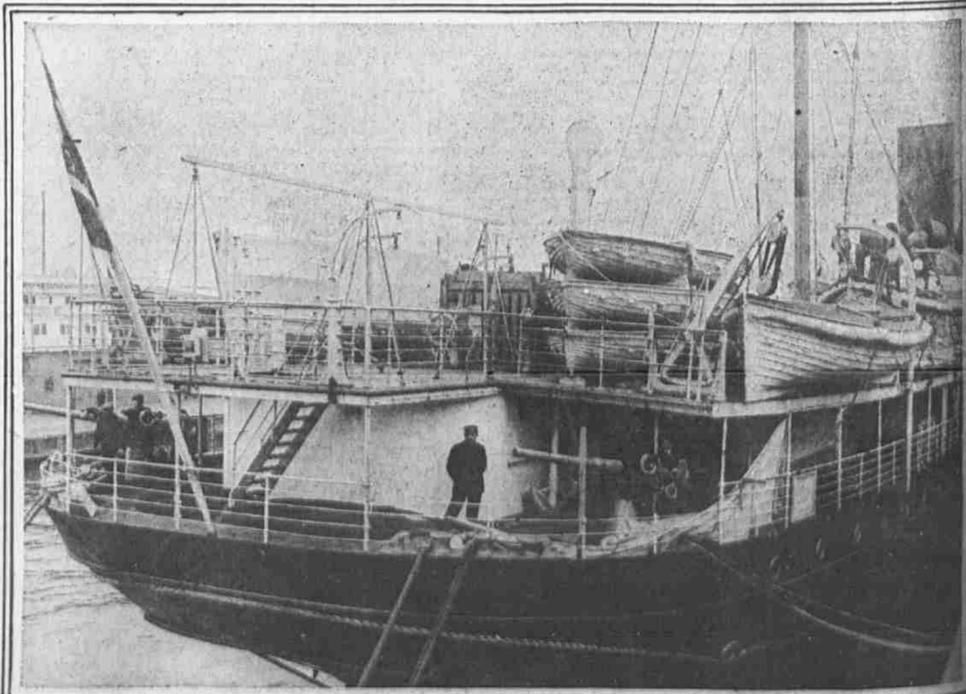

ADVERTISING ART AT THE SKETCH CLUB.
One of the striking posters executed by the Associated Artists of Philadelphia which have been on view at the galleries on South Camac street. This is the work of Douglas Duer.

EVEN THE SCHOOL GIRLS NOW FIND IT NECESSARY TO BE "PREPARED."
Girl pupils of the Western University in Washington have formed a rifle club and hold drills and shooting matches in order to fit themselves to become Amazons when the United States is invaded. Photo by International Film Service.

ENROLLING PUPILS FOR CONTINUATION CLASSES AT THE McCALL SCHOOL.
The State law which became effective January 1 provides that children between the ages of 14 and 16 who have working certificates must have at least 8 hours schooling a week and arrangements are being made at many institutions to provide this.

GUNS OF THE SORT NOW MAKING TROUBLE FOR THE UNITED STATES.
These guns are mounted on the after deck of the Italian liner Verona, now in New York harbor, ostensibly for "defense," but since they would sink a submarine their presence has raised a diplomatic question which Washington is now trying to solve.